THE MAKER

One artist. Two hands. Every shirt.

Corey was born and raised in Brunswick, Maine, and has been working since his paper route days. Now he makes every shirt himself, by hand, one at a time.

“Original, handmade style with genuine heart and a bit of edge.”

DYEING BY DESIGN · DBD · BRUNSWICK, MAINE

One of a kind. By design.

HAND BLEACHED SHIRTS

Real leaves from the Maine woods and hand cut stencils, made one shirt at a time.

DYEINGBYDESIGN.COM

HOW IT'S MADE

Real leaves. Real bleach.
No two alike.

Staghorn sumac, fresh from the Maine woods.

01 Gather

Real leaves from the Maine woods, like staghorn sumac, cedar, and ostrich fern, or a stencil cut by hand.

02 Lay and spray

Everything is laid flat on the tee and misted with bleach. The open fabric lightens. Under the leaf, the color stays.

03 Fix, wash, wear

The bleach is neutralized, then the shirt is washed and dried. The design lives in the fibers, so there's nothing to crack or peel.

“We could not make two identical shirts if we tried. We’ve tried.”

CARE Cold water, inside out, gentle cycle. Hang dry or tumble low.

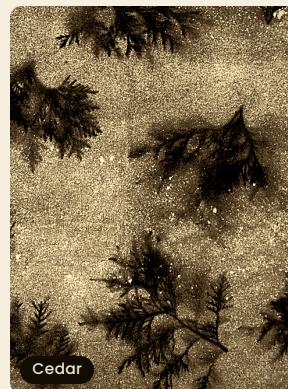

THE LINEUP

Botanicals & stencils

Every design comes in unisex sizes S to 2XL, on your pick of nine colors.

Sumac

Cedar

THE BOTANICAL LINE

Sumac Staghorn sumac

Feathered fronds, deep burn. The original.

Cedar Northern white cedar

Fanned sprays that branch like frost. The North Woods one.

Fern Ostrich fern

Lacy, layered, almost too fine to believe it's bleach.

THE GRAPHIC & STENCIL LINE

Hand cut stencils: celestial icons, wildlife silhouettes, bold geometric work, even your business logo. Any shape you can picture can be made as a 1 of 1.

LIMITED DROPS

Small batches. Numbered. Gone.

A few times a year we run a numbered batch with seasonal leaves, new stencil cuts, and new colorways. Join the list at dyeingbydesign.com to hear first.
